The Action aims to advance and disseminate research and knowledge about the significance of paid parental leave (PPL) for the social sustainability of societies. Our aim is to set the scene for future PPL research from the new perspective of social sustainability while making the field more coherent across disciplines and beyond academia. The main challenges are to build the network, identify and fill gaps in PPL research, develop a future-oriented and cross-disciplinary PPL terminology, and facilitate future research by closing the PPL data gap. Five Working Groups (WGs) will be established to focus on: (1) The development of a theoretical framework; (2) the identification of social inequalities through PPL policies; (3) the relevance of PPL for child development; (4) providing a future-oriented PPL terminology and (5) the expansion of PPL data.
- 2022-today Member of the Management Committee of the COST Action CA20131, Efficient Justice for All: Improving Court Efficiency through EU Benchmarking (EfficientJustice). Description: This COST proposal is built on the idea that the only way we can face his challenge head on, is by exploiting the differences in institutional, legal and economic circumstances in EU countries to identify best practices. This idea in itself is not new, and has for example been successfully applied to the benchmarking of electricity networks in EU countries. Likewise, a comparison of legal systems does not have to start from scratch, as a lot of the codification that is required has already been done. With this proposal, we want to take the crucial next step: by bringing together a strong team of experts in benchmarking with a strong focus on how to handle the heterogeneity that is present in Europe.
